Dear Chris,

We have considered your query against our Terms and Conditions of our scheme and we are happy to accept applications from farmers who use part of their house as an office or something similar.

The quoted cost we ask for is excluding VAT so do not see any issues here.

Applicants would of course have to meet the other conditions of the RHPP scheme.

Happy to discuss further if required.

Kind regards

Chris,

Thanks for this – I will raise this with colleagues dealing directly with the RHPP and get back to you with a definitive answer, a few people are off this week so it may be next Monday before I can advise.

Will get back to you as soon as I can.

Thanks,

Peter

Good morning Peter,

Did you have a chance to look at this? I was meant to add another factor. Farm dwellings are eligible to reduced rates and this could further cloud the definition what constitutes "a domestic dwelling".

Good morning,

I have a query relating to the recently announced NIRHPPS. Will farmhouses be eligible households to apply for the Scheme? The complications lies in the fact that the farmhouse is connected to a farm business in the majority of cases.

I have read the notes and guidance and can find no reference to farmhouses.

We are hoping to saying something publically about the scheme shortly.
