David,

Looks sensible to me.

Regards,

Simon

In summary we have 850 Broiler Sheds in NI – we have Biomass on 600 – so 250 to be considered.

Of these 40 are Company owned and 60 are old houses with a likelihood they will retire rather than re invest (natural wastage)

So we would have 60 houses that are slow to develop but are now considering along with the 40 company houses and now with JBS support we are considering this opportunity.

We have 100 houses in the pipeline for construction in 2016 all of which would require Biomass.

We have just started to roll out Hot Water & Biomass to our Breeder groups and we have 400 sheds in this group. Currently we have in draft Letters of Intent for c200 sheds and this is likely to go to 300.

I would suggest we have good appetite demand for 500 - 550 additional installs.

As we understand the current scheme is guaranteed up to end March – best guess is that we could get 150 – 200 boilers fitted in this window (provided hardware is available etc.)

Every month we get beyond the end March would deliver 50 houses per month – I would be really happy if we knew we had until the end of August for the program – we would really sweep everything up in this case.

Any visibility of the timescale after March would be helpful – but we are assuming the worst and pushing all stops for end March

Hi David

Could we get to-gether next wed? – Mairi please see what's possible

In advance can you prepare where we are at, how exposed we are based on some scenario's of what they might do and ideally what are would want them to do.

Then we could go up and see Mr Crawford!

Thanks

Mike

Hi Mike

Would be good to chat re the above and review what is in the public domain and what if any influence we can exert to soften the blow of future plans!

Let me know any time you have a minute

David M
