Irrelevant information talked about handling all of the sites waste on site.
 I thought at the time a little far fetched, seems not.

The opportunity to provide heating from gasifying the waste i would reckon would be of interest – RHI.

Also proposed is a large on site composting facility (opportunity for tyhe biochar)
 Also proposed is the large scale remediation of the site needing imports of waste – again the biochar.

Worth exploring further....?

I would think that a development of that size is a long way of at the moment?
 We will not put him off his notion.

Interesting that a developer wants to put a chicken litter gasifier beside where he will build.

I thought we were trying to get away from a built up area.

A site with a use for the heat would be very useful, and increase revenue. I would assume being a quarry there will be good a electricity connection etc.
