Morning

I'm afraid we have no way of knowing this. There has been no obligation on people to inform us of installations during the transition period. Wouldn't anticipate a huge influx – if I had to guess I'd say less than 50 in the transition period and of course it's unlikely that they'll all be contacting you on the first day – but stress that is a guess!

Subject: Start of the NIRHI scheme

Morning Joanne

My Associate Director, Matthew has posed the question; “ how many applications we can expect on the first day?” This is due to installations that have been commissioned since Sept 1 2010 being eligible for the scheme. I guess what I am after is an idea about how many legacy systems exist from that date in Northern Ireland? This would at least give us a point of reference on this.

Thanks in advance

Michelle
