Morag

DECC have confirmed that boiler oversizing is one of the key fixes they want to include in the next batch of regulations planned for February 2014. We are still having early discussions to set the scope for this work but DECC have been clear they regard this as a priority.

Ashley,

We are aware and will stick with our line of refer to DECC from when this came up earlier this month. We have also let Comms know.

Can you shed any light on DECC's position on amending the Regs re oversizing, or any of the arguments which are put forward in the article? I have left a voicemail for Paul Thompson of the REA to try and get his views / find out what response he may be planning.

Thanks

Morag

Former colleague Rachel has helpfully alerted us to this Private Eye article. Don't know if you were aware already?
(I remember this causing a bit of a stir internally when they ran their first story)
